BENNETT & BROSSEAU

ROOFING INC.

With one contract, Bennett & Brosseau assumes full responsibility for completing the entire roofing structure including fabrication of custom sheet metal and siding. Moreover, HVAC, electrical, and plumbing subcontractors are coordinated and scheduled as each project scope dictates. James Brosseau, Vice President of Bennett & Brosseau says, “The roof is one of the most critical structures of a building. Improper design and inferior installation are the leading causes of roof failure. Couple this with minimal routine maintenance and a building owner or manager dramatically increases his or her risk as well as liability exposure. By involving all parties at the onset of the process, we can ensure the highest quality project with the utmost efficiency.”

Bennett & Brosseau’s design-build team evaluates the big picture to achieve a complete understanding of critical factors that could impact a project’s schedule and budget. Labor, equipment, and material availability are key issues considered in designing the overall construction plan. Notwithstanding, the single source of responsibility is a crucial factor in initiating a fast track project and keeping it there. Combine this with engineering efficiencies and customers receive exceptional value for every roofing dollar.
