Commitment to Safety Recognized

ROMEDEVILLE, IL - Bennett & Brosseau Roofing, Inc. expressed its commitment to jobsite safety by providing critical safety information to the Sheet Metal and Air Conditioning Contractors' National Association (SMACNA). The data will be used to evaluate safety trend issues in the sheet metal and HVAC industry and the resultant report will be presented in the near future.

Bennett & Brosseau seeks to foster improved construction performance through promotion of proven effective work practices and is dedicated to the concept of zero injury construction.

“Reducing our workers’ injuries ultimately reduces an owner’s construction costs and mitigates negative publicity for all parties involved,” says James Brosseau, President of Bennett & Brosseau. Safety is part of Bennett & Brosseau’s culture that is practiced every day, on every job. These efforts help to maintain a safe environment for company crews, as well as client employees, property, and customers. The commitment to safety is evident in their incident rates, which are some of the lowest in the industry. These rates attest to the effectiveness of formal safety programs in reducing accidents and maintaining a safe working environment.
